Dear [redacted]

The annual three-day seminar for the Washington Area Operations Centers Chiefs (WAOCC) was recently held at the Alternate National Military Command Center. One of our featured speakers was [redacted] who graciously consented to make the long drive (and longer walk in to the hole), to present an overview of the state of Artificial Intelligence and current relevant initiatives.

It was a tough audience because the level of technical awareness ranged from very high to very limited. However, [redacted] did his usual masterful job of succinctly providing something for everyone. The reception of the group was very good and they have asked me to pass on their sincerest appreciation.

The continued support of your office to my operation is most welcome and I heartily thank you, [redacted] and all those who keep us in mind.

Sincerely,

[redacted]
David Y. McManis
